Rustic and modern elements fuse together in the beautiful wood furniture of the Carnegie collection. Each piece in the Carnegie collection is highlighted by the unique band-saw teak finish of the sustainably sourced mango wood, and the reclaimed iron of their authoritative bases. Simple, clean lines add a touch of contemporary modern style to the furniture in this industrial collection. This beautiful dining table has a solid mango wood top featuring a band-saw teak finish that offers durability while showcasing the natural grain of the wood. Affixed to the bottom of the table top is a cast iron rod that threads into the tripod base, allowing the table top to be spun 360° to whatever height works best for your needs. The iron accent affixed to the rod serves as a stopper so once the table is at the desired height, the top will remain stable and in place. This industrial modern dining table requires some assembly, and with materials of the finest quality, it will be an effortless addition to any home.
