Rustic wood finishes fused with hand-forged iron give the pieces of the Organic Forge collection their sleek and durable design. Hand crafted from thick Acacia wood slabs that rest atop a cast iron base, the gorgeous furniture in this collection feature a genuine live edge that further enhances the natural beauty of each piece. Constructed entirely from eco-friendly, natural and reclaimed materials, this hand-crafted bench has a live edge top of solid acacia wood featuring uneven edges and butterfly joinery detailing. The raw, natural appeal of the walnut finish on the wood creates a rugged and texturized effect that can be felt and seen from every angle, while also affording durability for daily use. The bench's seat rests atop four reclaimed cast iron legs supported by the cross bar stretchers that are indicative of the Organic Forge collection, all in an antique zinc finish, creating a fusion of natural and industrial elements. This bench requires assembly, and with materials of the finest quality, it will be an effortless addition to any home.
