The Climbing Figure Sculpture will add instant sophistication and texture to any room in a home. Capturing the characteristics of the nude body has been a fascination of some of the world's most lauded artists with styles as diverse as Auguste Rodin and Constantin Brancusi. Made of metal in a silver finish with black patina, this silver decorative accessory has a stippled surface and patina to make it read as strikingly vintage. This is one of our pieces that reflects the modern organic ethos the Phillips Collection personifies, and it will look just as beautiful in a home filled with contemporary art as it will in an urban loft.
