Not every garden requires antiquities to make it shine. For lovers of contemporary design we have an array of offerings in planters that make them perfect vessels for plants and flower without all the embellishment. Case in point is the Harvest Large Light Gray Planter with its clean lines and clever indented dentil pattern on the implied base. It's made of composite so it's easier to move around than terracotta planters. We went the extra mile style-wise with this design, as we rolled the lip of the planter inward to pare down the shape. We also offer the light gray Harvest in small and large sizes, and a darker gray in all three sizes is available. Each of these reflects the ethos that Phillips Collection personifies: modern organic.
