Made of mango wood, the Marley Black Bar Stool has an hourglass profile that keeps its lines clean and simple. Also contemporary on this design is the minimalist feel of the stainless-steel foot rest. Mango wood is a hardwood that has been harvested for making furniture for many years; it's a heartwood that is inherently sustainable. The black surface of this version of the bar stool has been achieved with a burnt finish. This is one of our pieces of furniture that reflects the ethos that Phillips Collection personifies: modern organic. We have a number of stools and tables in a variety of finishes.
